

Hello Phil,

Regional Australia is experiencing a housing crisis. And we need the Government to guarantee dedicated funding to increase housing supply in regional, rural and remote Australia – not just the big cities.

Almost one in three Australians live outside the major cities. The housing needs and demands of our regional communities are different. The lack of housing supply is a handbrake on our local economies, we can't fill important jobs as there is nowhere for people to live.

The Government has multiple housing policies, and just announced a deal with the Greens for more funding, but not one of these announcements have guaranteed dedicated funding for regional Australia.

That's why today I introduced a Bill to Parliament: the Unlocking Regional Housing Bill.

As an Independent regional Member of Parliament, I won't let the Government's blindspot for people living outside major cities mean we get left behind. I have worked with my community to come up with this common-sense solution, which addresses the unique challenges faced in regional Australia.

My Bill would boost housing infrastructure funding for regional, rural and remote communities. Click here for the details on how.

But I need your help to get this over the line.

Tell the Prime Minister to back my Bill so we get on with building homes for regional Australians.

Yours faithfully,

Helen
